ALL-OUT WAR EFFORT

We, the students of Randolph Central School, are eager to do all we possibly can to help win the war.

We have bought bonds and stamps. We have collected scrap, rubber, keys, and other materials essential to the war effort.

Many have done Red Cross work. Many have been donors to the Red Cross Blood Bank. These are all worthwhile activities essential to the war effort.

The Aeronautics Club and Model Airplane Club have been formed as a result of the war. These clubs give those who are interested a chance to find out more about aeronautics and aircraft.

In our Gym classes we have performed commando tactics, which would prove of great value to us in case we should be bombed or attacked.

We have given up many outside activities and programs which would otherwise continue. This is due to the shortage of tires and the rationing of gasoline. There have been few complaints about this because nearly everyone realizes that the continuance of the war effort is more important than his own personal pleasures. We must not grumble about giving up a few things for the war program.

Our duty as citizens of the United States and the adults of tomorrow is to obtain all possible information on the war, the probable effects of the war on future life, and the problems of the post-war world. An individual, well-informed and with at least a moderate education, can be a much better American citizen and voter, than one uninformed and illiterate.

We must not deceive ourselves into believing that by relaxing our war program in any way, we are doing our share in freeing the world. We must increase our war effort in the future and continue the splendid work we have started.

FOREWORD

In collecting the facts and the fancies, the photographs and the literary productions of this book, our purpose has been to portray the breadth and scope of student activities, and to reveal to its readers Randolph Central as we know it.

It is not under ordinary conditions that we bring to this, the eighth publication of the "Hilltop". Ours is the class of the second war year. May these pages echo the voice of Randolph Central in the cry for Victory.

IN MEMORIAM

It is with sincerity and pride that we publish this "Hilltop" in lasting memory of Ralph Ingerson and Vincent Whaley, members of our community and alumni who have made the supreme sacrifice for their country.

Our boys tonight are sleeping,
Sleeping 'neath skies of gray,
Yet at home we hear no weeping
For the lads that went away.
The men who fall would want it that way,
For they sleep not in shades of defeat;
No time to spare for mourning today
As the bugle sounds retreat.
We little know what we owe to them
Who sleep 'neath skies of gray.
God help us to keep our tears and our faith
For the brave lads who went away.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Mr. Van Wie

Mr. Gibbin

This school year will be unique in the memories of the pupils of Randolph Central School in that the entire school year has passed with the clouds of war hovering over us.

As a school, we may well be proud of our accomplishments in activities connected with war effects.

War saving stamps and bonds to the value of $10,633.60 have been purchased, making a purchase of $15.08 per student.

The membership of the student body in the Junior Red Cross was one hundred per cent, and both students and faculty have been actively engaged in first aid and other Red Cross activities. The members of the Red Cross Club have made valuable contributions to the war efforts, while the donations from the pupils and faculty to the Red Cross War Fund Drive was $135.

The school took an active part in the drives for scrap metal, rubber, old keys, and paper. Members of the faculty and student body assisted on the trucks which collected these materials in the community and gave of their time and effort to locate and assemble materials.

Many of the pupils and all members of the faculty assisted in the rationing of gasoline and canned goods, and relayed to the public the information necessary for an intelligent use of the ration books.

Many pupils and members of the faculty are air wardens or messengers during daytime alerts and in blackouts, and have given of their time and effort to form a smoothly-working organization.

Several pupils went out on the farms and assisted in the planting and harvesting of crops, and have thus contributed to the food output of the nations.

Many students and teachers take their turn at the watch tower in spotting and reporting airplanes.

The pupils in the industrial arts department co-operated with the federal government and accepted a quota of fifty model airplanes to be made during the school year.

Hundreds of former pupils and many of the student body for this year have taken their places among the armed forces of our country and each passing month adds others to this total.

At least one graduate has given his life in battle, and two have been reported missing in action.

We have given and sacrificed, even to the supreme sacrifice.

Miss White

Miss Quinlon

To our adviser, Miss Quinlon, the "Hilltop", as spokesman for the entire school body, pays tribute for her kindly and never-failing guidance and tolerance through every day of the school year.

Her unselfish service to the class of '43, giving the cooperation so essential to our education, will be a criterion by which we will always serve others.

We wish to express our gratitude and appreciation to Miss White, our adviser, for her constant interest and understanding of our problems, during our high school course.

We regret that she leaves R. C. S. at the end of this year. Our best wishes attend her in her new position.

CLASS HISTORY

Class Motto: "United We Stand"

Class Flower: Delphinium

Class Colors: Blue and Gold

In September 1931, some little boys and girls started cheerfully off for their first day of school. Some of these same boys and girls have struggled bravely on and on for what seemed ages and yet has been only twelve years. Those children now make up a wonderful class, the class of '43.

Some of us started in little, one-room, rural schools, scattered around Randolph. Some started in the little school down town and put in their first six years there. Some of us started in schools far from Randolph.

In the seventh grade we began to come together in Randolph Central School. In our freshman year our number was increased to over one hundred. This large number has gradually decreased until but forty-six remain. Three of our class were graduated in January.

Throughout our school years we have had many interesting experiences. Some have been very humorous, and others not so facetious.

Throughout our high school years we have been well represented in basketball, chorus, band, orchestra, and other school activities. We have derived a great deal of pleasure and fun from these activities and we hope we have learned something from our experiences as well.

Some of our group made the trip to Albany and to Atlantic City with the band in 1941. Needless to say, we had some queer experiences and a great deal of fun by which to remember these trips.

Some of those who were once one of us are now serving their country in various branches of the armed forces. Others of our group will follow in their footsteps within the next year or two. We who will not be in the actual service will be working for victory on the home front. We are a patriotic class and each one is anxious to help win the present war.

In our Sophomore year we selected our class colors, blue and gold, and our class motto, "United We Stand". We did not realize then what a great meaning our motto was to have, not only to us, but to our country, too.

To those teachers who have helped us through our school days and prepared us for the day of graduation, we wish to express our thanks, and we will reserve a special place in our hearts for you.

And so we bid you good-bye, school on the hill, filled with so many pleasant memories for the class of '43. We will soon be scattered throughout the United States and perhaps throughout the world. We will not forget you, though, little school. We will come back sometimes, if we can. And now, "Farewell", until we meet again, Alma Mater.

LITTLE-KNOWN FACTS ABOUT WELL-KNOWN SENIORS

Chrystole Carr and Stanley Shields just can't seem to get together.

We understand that Phyllis Milligan always waits long after the basketball games are over. Russell is a nice chap, anyway.

Isabel Remington strongly believes you can't say no to a soldier.

Bessie Smith seems to think that we should have two weeks vacation in the first part of February. She took a vacation whether we did or not.

Morris Cain likes the outdoors, at least last summer by sleeping on the lawn. He did complain somewhat of the dew, though.

Next time when Cain and Remington have one of their parties in the park, they had better make sure they have enough salt. It's very embarrassing to go around to the neighboring cabins at that hour.

Lucille Munney was seen walking around East Randolph last summer with a nice-looking young man. Don Leid is a nice boy, isn't he, Lucille, but Gibsonburg, Ohio is quite far, though.

The east corner between second and third floors is a place of interest for Grace Sluga. H. Shipherd is also there.

Lucille Munney is going to be in debt if she has to pay for the camera she broke the day the senior pictures were taken. Maybe he'll let you off for half price, Lucille.

It doesn't do to have both boy friends come home on furlough at the same time. L. Anderson knows this to be a fact.

Bill Flagg is carrying the torch for Margaret Z. Don't let her blow it out before you show her your stuff, Bill.

Marion West thinks Bob R. is pretty good at warding off the ball at basketball games. Keep up the good work, Bob.

You and I know that a bathtub is a queer place to sleep, but Bob Remington doesn't think so.

Marilyn Spencer's motto is said to be "quality and not quantity". Cornell fits that perfectly, as she can tell you.

Strange how Mary Louise Matteson can't find other places besides French III class for her correspondence with our editor-in-chief.

Horton Smith always picks on girls smaller than himself. It must be that either there aren't any bigger girls to be had or he is afraid of them.

Betty Patterson would appreciate it if someone would lend her a set of brakes in order to continue her activities as cheerleader.

Harold Fellows, it is said, runs out of gas any time he feels like it. No wonder he likes a Nash better than any other make of car.

We understand Ethel writes very nice letters. We know she does in English and probably a certain soldier thinks so, too. Better be careful, Ethel, because someone else has an interest in him, too.

Do you remember—the time in Atlantic City when Betsy was caught in the hotel corridor in rather "slip-shod" attire? Such a time to lock a door. You should have taken your time.

Due to the passage of time have we forgotten that somewhere about 7th grade, Merrill Cornell had a terrific crush on our friends Ethel and Marilyn? The poor fellow just couldn't choose between them!

Anyone wishing information on how to escape from a bear in the State Park see Pete West. She didn't have as good luck with a wolf, though.

"Cornie", our track star, can run the half mile in almost nothing flat. He also runs after gasoline, too, very quickly. Somehow the car started again and our star only had to run about a quarter of a mile.

Naturally everyone remembers the time when Janet Hoitink was sent to the office for cracking hickory nuts in the study hall.

"Barb" Archer is very stubborn when it comes to unlocking doors. Ask Sonny Bissell who stood outside for two hours trying to break down her resistance.

It looks as though Cain bit off more than he can chew. Three girls at one time is quite a problem.

It seems that Pete West may have a little competition. Anyway, Bob Remington carries Betty Hausheer's and Pete's pictures in his billfold. Which one is it, Bob?

It's a well-known fact that Paul Benson doesn't know there is a shortage of men. Pick out a girl, Paul—there is a surplus!

Doris Honey always sits alone at the theater. Can it be that she is being true to that Marine, or could it?

Chrystole Carr certainly would fit in well with the WAACS. Proof? Listen when she starts off with the "Grandma stories".

Well, well, June! Certainly strange how you like to visit the cemetery! Is it really to look for a ghost or is there a more important reason?

Flash—Hear all about the Hill-Crawford co-operation, formed to work on "Problems of Democracy" in the library. True or false?

The class of '43 thinks that Carl Wright ought to take a course in "The Lovelorn Column". How about it, Mary? Do you agree?

Merle Sheffield was the only boy on the dance floor during most of the dance sponsored by the "Swingers". He didn't especially like that, or did he?

Howard Charlesworth likes sliding parties, so we're told. But on sliding parties, Howard, one is supposed to slide, not disappear toward the little white schoolhouse with innocent young girls, particularly a certain sophomore. They don't have night school at Napoli, do they?

Merle claims that he wishes he could pick out his own partners to go advertising for the yearbook.

1. Sheff's pride and joy. 2. The books are just for effect. 3. Pretty soft, Betsy. 4. Where's the pain, Pete? 5. That pleased expression must be for the Seniors. 6. Pensive Doris? Is he a soldier? 7. Books for looks, Helen? 8. What lovely pearls! 9. Phil & Bets looking glamorous. 10. Is that nice, Mary Lou? 11. Friends, Romans, Countrymen! 12. Bob, before the rubber shortage. 13. Pete's second front. 14. What cute kittens, Janet! 15. If Carol had only known you then! 16. Those were the days, huh, Jean? 17. Grace, with a drape shape. 18. Sophisticated Lucille. 19. Dark eyes——Marilyn S., as coy as ever.

POETRY

DREAMS IN FANTASY

While sitting alone in my study hall seat
My thoughts often stray from the printed sheet.
I dream up big things in my fantasy,
Things that would be most funny to see.
Miss Coxe is there with a big cigar;
Prof. Van Wie runs around in a big red car.
Mr. Kline with a staff guides his flock to the fold,
While Miss Quinlon is there only twenty years old.
Cornell shows up with a babe on each arm,
But Remington's in there learning to farm.
Shy little Helen has never a beau,
So glamorous Jean is the hit of the show.
Barb Archer has grown to six feet tall,
And when Curtiss calls up, Dexter's not there at all.
Bolton, a barber, weilds scissors and comb,
While, wonder of wonders, Cain knew the way home.
Betsy and Dick broke up. (What a dream!)
And Bill Flagg, the pilot, came in on the beam.
Issy and Bacon were friends for a week.
Poor Chrystole was hoarse and couldn't speak.
The kids rule the land in this day-dream so queer,
While the oldsters look on with never a sneer.
There's a dance every night that lasts until four,
Then you sleep all the day and come back for more.
The teachers in school are such good-lookers all,
The guys flock around like fourth period study hall.
So remember this, pal, when your cares get you down,
Day-dreams don't cost you a cent in this town.

Note: Fourth period study hall is presided over by Miss Needham.

THE CLASS OF '43

Our day of glory has come at last
For we've worked and moiled with the rest.
The long days of study have come ond passed,
And with pride we say, "We're the best".
We little thought, five years ago,
We'd live to see this day;
For we were green and a little slow,
To catch on to the high-school way.
It was all very strange, to say the least,
To wander from place to place,
And most could be found, as the bell's ringing ceased,
In the halls, with a frown on their face.
But we quickly acquainted ourselves with this
And soon were old hands at the game.
We could rattle a teacher in perfect bliss
And on someone else pin the blame.
Oh, we had our ups and we had our downs,
Though the teachers said mostly the latter.
Could such a class get caps and gowns?
The answers were not meant to flatter.
Then our last dear year came rolling around
And everyone seemed to fit in,
Not a bad Senior class that we have found,
Not at all like it might have been.
Now we've reached the pinnacle without gas,—
Made a mark for all to see.
Others may copy, but none surpass
The class of forty-three.

R. C. S. BROADCAST

Each year the Juniors edit the school paper, the "R. C. S. Broadcast". This is published four times during each school year. It contains club news, school news, sports news, school activities, and last but not least, the jokes.

The editor-in-chief and assistants this year have done very commendable work to make the "R. C. S. Broadcast" an oustanding school paper.

The basketball team this year accomplished much in spite of many difficulties. Bad weather, gasoline rationing, tire shortage, and the ban on pleasure driving were overcome in some way.

There was only one boy back from last year's varsity team and only one from last year's reserve. Consequently our teams this year had to be built up of inexperienced players. Not to be hindered by this, our boys won nine out of seventeen games, and scored a total of 516 points while the teams we played scored 425 points.

BASKETBALL

The unfailing persistence of the cheer leaders has certainly done much in helping our basketball teams to win several games. In spite of the uncertainty of continuing basketball games and the small school attendance, the cheer leaders have done a splendid job. The cheer leaders are Marian West, Betsy Champlin, Betty Patterson, and Doris Remington.

GIRLS' INTRAMURALS

This year the intramural activity period has exceptionally large attendance. In this period the basketball class teams play against each other. There has been much rivalry this year and the scores have been comparitively close in many of the games. The Seniors are well represented by two teams. To date, the Post Graduate and Faculty Team hold first place. Grace Sluga's team and the Sophomore team are tied for second place, and the Junior team holds third place.

STUFF 'N' THINGS

We wish Don and Georgeann wouldn't be so secretive bout their going together; you know it sort of leaves everyody in doubt as to whether they care about each other.

Why is Lois Carnahan so backward about telling us who he Forestville class ring belongs to? His initials are D. H. R., ut that's all we know unless there is some connection beween the ring and a picture that was taken a while back. ell us more, Lois.

We understand that "Cornie" was a little late one morng (5 o'clock) coming home from a party. Can it be that the arty was that good, or was it a more feminine reason?

Why is it Janet Hoitink turns on the radio light to bid the" boy goodnight? She claims that her mother insists there e a light on, but the size of the light was not mentioned.

Helen Zavitz will be hearing wedding bells soon, it is umored. Nice going, Helen; may you be happy and not sor- for your decision.

It takes a long time for Teddie to ask Mr. Colwell if he an take Doris home.

Do you remember last year when David Alexander "tried" o teach Miss Needham to drive? Driving through three or our redlights were the results.

Hoitink, Zavitz, and Anderson are forming a corporation o divide up the smaller boys between them for proteges.

Howard Charlesworth got cold waiting in Randolph for ellows to come back from Conewango. After all, 3 A. M. a little late to be out in the cold, Harold.

Tell about your friends being handy, take a gander at tahley and Champlin. That's what I call being real handy.

Why was it Gussman watched the audience at the basetball games. Could it be he has an interest in a Conewano fan?

We understand Shirley Williams' first corsage was a toen of adoration. Does it still hold true, Shirley?

Who is "Joe Blow" in the Army Air Corps, Miss Backus? oes he teach Homemaking, too?

Remington made a slight error on the stairs when he hought he put his arm around Pete. Phillips thought so, too.

Jean Crawford can't seem to turn a corner very good. he runs over a stump over on the other side. Can it be girls o one arm driving, too?

I guess the love bug has bit Sam, for it seems that he ode a bicycle from Napoli to Conewango on the stormiest ights this winter. He ought to form a partnership with Felws and use Fellows' car every other time.

Virginia Archer, I believe, has misunderstood the saying bout keeping up the boys' morale. You are supposed to bolter soldier boys' morale, not basketball boys, Virginia.

We wonder what Mary thought when Sheffield kissed Zatz in that Friday morning play!

Brown and Dunn go around together like a couple of ve birds. The only difference is that love birds aren't quite public about it.

That advertising trip to Jamestown was quite eventful. Ve wonder why Harold and Howard didn't sit with the girls. Sheff" didn't mind it, but he was surprised at their sudden yness.

Visker and Rossman seem to have quite a time when they ind the children at Williams'. Sometimes they have too any visitors or maybe it's the wrong visitors.

JUST PLAIN DIRT

Did you know that Sheffield and Matteson link arms in ssembly? It's all right, though, because nowadays you have make the best of your time.

It this a new romance budding between Newton and Rose? They get pretty chummy in 4th period study hall.

Carol Fuller doesn't believe in dancing, but her interest, it is said, lies in "smooching". Nice work if you can get it.

As I walked past a car one night in Conewango I thought was empty, but I was fooled for two heads suddenly popped . Know what I mean, Barbara?

The girls who go out with Peterson claim they need a adlock on themselves. What's the angle?

We wonder which one Lucille Anderson writes to first hen she receives letters from all her boy friends at once.

OUR HUNTING TRIP

The following story is taken from the diary of Herb Shipherd and Warren Slater.

"We arrived by train in the Great North Woods at a place called "Bathtub", where we met our guide, Morris Cain. However, by the Indians he was called "Running Water". He introduced us to his sons, "Hot" and "Cold", and when asked about his sweetheart, he replied, "Not-So-Hot".

We wanted to get started immediately so we collected our supplies. First we each strapped a pack on our backs, then the beds, stove, chairs, and then we mounted our horses with a slight difficulty.

We traveled all day without any interesting experiences and at nightfall we pitched our tent. The guide pitched his a little farther but ours had a better curve on it.

The next morning we had a thrilling experience. We shot a bear in our underwear, but how he got in there we couldn't figure out. Later in the day we hunted deer. It seemed there was a slight mistake as to the identity of two deer so we moved on without our horses.

As we were tramping through the brush, we saw something moving in the bushes. Bang! Bang! Plop! We both fired into the bushes. Running Water said, "——". We shot the guide much to our sorrow, and ever afterwards, he was dead guide."

——Here, some of Long John's diary pages were missing.——

"We mounted fresh horses and jogged along homeward, painfully thinking of what was behind us."

Modern marriage is just like a cafeteria. You grab what looks nice and pay for it later.

The man had fallen overboard. He sank out of sight, then rose to the surface. "Ahoy there!" he yelled. "Drop me a line!" The captain appeared at the rail and shouted back, "All right, but what's your address going to be?"

There was not an answer.

The teacher explained, "When two things come together unexpectedly, that is a collision."

Then the teacher asked, "Now can anyone give me an example?"

Little Johnny: "Twins."

Help — Murder

A young lady, not familiar with the switching language of railroad men, chanced to be walking near a depot where a freight train was being made up.

One of the brakemen shouted, "Jump on her when she comes by, run her down by the elevator, and cut her in two and bring the head end up by depot."

"Help! Murder!" screamed the young lady, as she fainted into the arms of an innocent bystander.

We have it on good authority that Adolph Hitler has already picked out the inscription for his tombstone. It reads: "Positively my last territorial demand.

Father: "What did you and Dick talk about last night?"

Betsy C.. "Oh, we talked about kith and kin."

Small Sister: "Yeth, Pop, I heard 'em. He seth, "Kin I have a kith?" and she seth, "Yeth, you kin."
